| On Our Own Terms: Moyers on Dying | Bill Moyers, host. Elena Mannes, producer. Public Affairs Television | 90 min ea | adult | VHS | 4 videos in series - 1. Living With Dying, 2. Different Kind of Care, 3. Death of One's Own, 4. Time to Change. Emmy award-winning journalist Bill Moyers looks at how we die in America, providing an intimate window in the daily experience of patients, their families and their caregivers, including the decisions they face and the changes they undergo. Along with this deeply personal perspective, we meet the medical, legal, and public policy experts who offer suggestions for improving conditions of terminal patients. | VH-01 | 1 Set | na |
| On Our Own Terms: Moyers on Dying #1. Living With Dying | Bill Moyers, host. Elena Mannes, producer. Public Affairs Television | 90 min ea | adult | VHS | On Our Own Terms: Moyers on Dying series - program 1 of 4 tapes. Dying is a part of life that each person approaches with different attitudes, beliefs and wishes. As the process of dying is prolonged by advances in medical knowledge, we face increasingly complicated choices as individuals and as a society. And most of us don't want to talk about it. Through the personal accounts of people facing death, "Living With Dying" explores the choices we make at the end of life. | VH-01 | 1 | na |
| On Our Own Terms: Moyers on Dying #2. A Different Kind of Care. | Bill Moyers, host. Elena Mannes, producer. Public Affairs Television | 90 min ea | adult | VHS | While terminal patients now live longer, for many, that means living with pain. Improvements in pain medication and a growing understanding of the role of palliative care, or "comfort care," is changing that. When there is no hope for a cure, palliative care doctors shift their focus to helping patients live as comfortably as possible, responding to physical, emotional and psychological needs. "A Different Kind of Care" introduces viewers to palliative care doctors and their patients as they work hand in hand to make the dying process more tolerable. | VH-01 | 1 | na |

| On Our Own Terms: Moyers on Dying #3. A Death of One's Own. | Bill Moyers, host. Elena Mannes, producer. Public Affairs Television | 90 min ea | adult | VHS | We fear dying in pain, we fear that too much will be done to keep us alive, or we fear that not enough will be done. What are the options? Who makes the choices? When is the right moment for final decisions? "A Death of One's Own" addresses the debate over physician- assisted suicide, where the critical issue is less the right to die, than the way to live when choices are circumscribed by practical realities. | VH-01 | 1 | na |
| On Our Own Terms: Moyers on Dying #4. A Time to Change. | Bill Moyers, host. Elena Mannes, producer. Public Affairs Television | 90 min ea | adult | VHS | An extraordinary public hospital program in Birmingham, Alabama offers an inspiring model for what health care could be for the dying and their families. The Balm of Gilead project works to introduce hospice ideas into mainstream health care with the help of its dedicated staff. Patching together an operating budget from Medicare and Medicaid reimbursements, church donations, foundation grants and a county indigent fund, the Balm of Gilead weaves a safety net for the dying from underserved and economically disadvantaged communities. As the population ages, these financial challenges are growing more acute. In "A Time to Change," viewers will be introduced to both caregivers and policy reformers who are working at providing better end-of-life care. | VH-01 | 1 | na |

| Ruby Bridges | Disney feature film | 90 min | inter-generational | VHS | Inspiring true story of one little girl who helped change history. When six-year old Ruby is chosen to be the first to integrate her local New Orleans school, she is subjected to ugly racism. Guided by the love of her mother and her teacher, Ruby's struggle for a better education becomes a lesson for us all. "Superior acting, writing, and production mark this look at one of the uglier periods in American social history and the little girl who helped the country take a giant step in the right direction. Somewhat scary situations and use of racial slurs make parental guidance advisable for young children. (Ages 7 and older) "-- Kimberly Heinrichs | VC-08 | 1 | 07888 27405 |

| With Eyes Open: Coping with Death. #1. Grief and Healing | Films for the Humanities & Sciences | 26 min | adult | VHS | First of four series. "Grief and Healing" is a conversation about loss, grief and healing facilitated by the founder of the San Francisco Zen Hospice Project, Frank Ostaseski. The program asks viewers what they fear about death, how they imagine their last moments, how they will say good-bye and how illness can be a transformative experience. Individuals like Paul, who is battling Hepatitis C, and Cathy, who lost her husband suddenly two years ago, discuss their experiences with grief and death, and coping with the fear of physical pain, loss of control, dependency, social isolation and anger. The episode ends with a ritual as the individuals convey a written message to those that they love, throwing their final words into a fire and watching as the embers rise. | VH-01 | 1 | na |

| With Eyes Open: Coping with Death. #2. Difficult Decision: When a Loved One Approaches Death | Films for the Humanities & Sciences | 26 min | adult | VHS | The second episode, "Difficult Decisions", looks at the importance of talking about what we want at the end of life with our loved ones. What would happen if you had a major stroke, were confined to an intensive care unit and could not speak for yourself? Would your family know your wishes? Host Ray Suarez sparks a discussion with members of two families who have been confronted by this scenario, the Suens and the Bermanns. Both families were recently faced with making life decisions for their loved ones—the Bermanns had the discussion, the Suens did not. Suarez and the families are joined by doctors and educators—Dr. Steven Pantilat of the University of California at San Francisco, Kathy Glasmire of Sacramento Health Decisions and Dr. LaVera Crawley of the Stanford University Bioethics Department—who help translate the Suens' and the Bermanns' experiences into universal situations we can all discuss with our loved ones. | VH-01 | 1 | na |

| With Eyes Open: Coping with Death. #3 Caregiving | Films for the Humanities & Sciences | 26 min | adult | VHS | Third episode of four. "Caregiving" looks at the challenges and rewards of caregiving. Every day, some 25 million Americans provide care for someone they love who is sick or frail, ranging from taking care of an aging mother to helping a dying spouse get dressed, bathe and eat. These caregivers are not paid and don't know where to turn for advice or assistance. Suarez speaks with a group of real-life experts—people who have personal experiences with caring for a sick or dying loved one. Suarez is also joined by Beth Witrogen McLeod, author of the Pulitzer Prize-nominated book Caregiving: The Spiritual Journey of Love, Loss, and Renewal and Celi Adams, founder of Home Care Companions, an agency which provides a free training program for families and friends struggling to provide the best home care possible. | VH-01 | 1 | na |

| With Eyes Open: Coping with Death. #4. Beyond Life and Death | Films for the Humanities & Sciences | 26 min | adult | VHS | Fourth episode of four. "Beyond Life, Beyond Death" asks where do we go when we die and is there a connection to our earthly lives? According to a Time Magazine poll, 81 percent of Americans believe in Heaven, when it is defined as the place "where people live forever with God after they die"; 94 percent believe in God or some higher power; and 79 percent believe in a Judgement Day. Host Ray Suarez interviews Tibetan Buddhist scholar Robert Thurman, as well as teacher and author Rabbi David Wolpe. Their conversations span a range of concepts involving our own mortality, from Buddhism's ideas of judgement and reincarnation; the old Jewish tale of two twins in the womb; and Christian imagery and beliefs. Both guests encourage viewers to ponder an afterlife where the mystery of death and the mystery of a "higher power" intersect. | VH-01 | 1 | na |
